Rocky Mountain Land Series

William Sutton

Saturday, October 19, 2:00 pm, Historic LoDo

Award-winning photographer William Sutton, an associate professor of art at Regis College in Denver, will offer a PowerPoint presentation and sign his new book At Home in the West: The Lure of Public Land ($50.00 George F. Thompson Publishing). Sutton has spent much of the past thirty years getting out of his truck and into the landscape, taking his camera to places of natural wonder both well known and obscure.

He has assembled one of the great photographic bodies of work dealing with the public lands of the American West, providing a glimpse of what these landscapes looked like before they became “national treasures.” Thankfully, because of their preservation, these public lands are available to all citizens of the world today.
